

Botanic name : Hymenopyramis brachiata Wall. ex Griff. -- Calcutta J. Nat. Hist. iii. 365 (1843). (IK)

Common name : Chintelet-new (Burma)

Family : Lamiales/Verbenaceae

Habitat : Terrestrial

Distribution : Native to Burma, SE Asia, East Asia; introduced in India; becoming rare due to habitat fragmentation, warming, and dryness

Description : Climber/creeper bushy; The thorn is stiff. Branches and inflorescences perpendicular to the trunk. Soft branches are short, light brown, dense ; leaves simple, alternate, ovate-lanceolate, acute at apex, entire at margin, cuneate to tapering at base; flowers small, bouquet branching; perennial petal, perpendicular to the small white flowers; the base of the petals; the base is small, very short brown hairs petals, petals 4, very cone-shaped cone. At the end of the split, four stamens are longer than the petals, about 2 times smaller than the smaller stamens. Female stigma splits into two lobes

Phytochemicals: 3,4- Dihydroxyphenylethanoid glycosides, beta-hydroxy-(3-4-dihydroxyphenyl) ethanoid glycoside, rosmarinic acid, Medicinal/Economic uses : Antioxidant, Antibacterial. Information needed.